The Pastoral Shadows of Brookong is an easy-grade, circular walk that takes you on a pictorial trail of Lockhart's history, creating a story through the use of rusted iron, scraps of metal, and other natural materials.

Built over a number of years by the community with the assistance of talented farm art sculpture artist, Stuart Spragg, the impressive and ever-growing collection of rusty iron sculptures capture the very essence of Lockhart's past, giving visitors a glimpse of rural life in the 1800s, when Lockhart and the area to the west of the town was a huge sheep station.

In 2011, Local and Visiting artists worked together to create "silhouettes" of shearers, shed hands, roustabouts, stockmen, drovers, 'swaggys.' Made from corrugated iron and scrap metal, the silhouettes are displayed in natural bushland at the eastern entrance of the township.

This project was made possible with donations and help from many organisations and individuals.
